ALLIES ENTER ROME CITY AREA

TOWNS OF COLLE FERRO AND ANAGNI FALL

Punjabi Mussalmans Enter Velotri: Mayor Presents Sword Of Town To C. O. Major Rana: Pursued Enemy Falls Back On North-West Of Rome

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS NAPLES, June 4.

THE FIFTH ARMY HAVE ENTERED THE CITY LIMITS OF ROME.

FROM REUTER'S SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT ALLIED H. Q. ITALY, June 4.—THE FIFTH ARMY IS DRIVING YARD BY YARD INTO THE POPULATED AREAS OF ROME.

ALGIERS, June 4.—Algiers radio, in a special broadcast, stated that Allied troops have entered the Rome area. The radio added: "Only sporadic resistance has been encountered".

LONDON, June 4.—The German News Agency war correspondent, Walter Plato, writes to-night: "New vicious fighting is now taking place in sight of Rome. West of Rome the Tiber river has become to-night a new front line. The battles raging in the Alban hills have reached unprecedented violence, and German troops have evacuated their positions at Rocca di Papa which is connected by tramway with Rome.

FIGHTING IN OUTSKIRTS BEFORE ENTRY INTO CITY

On Highway VI outside Rome June 4—German tanks have been fighting the American rearhead in the outskirts of Rome, since 06-50 to-day (Sunday).

From Reuter's Special Correspondent Allied Headquarters Italy (Sunday): Allied spearheads are to-day streaming downhill across the 12-mile plain east of Rome after smashing through Field-Marshal Kesselring's defence line in the Alban Hills. Sunday morning church bells provided the background to crashing mobile artillery, and the rattle of small arms as the spreading right-wing of the American forces pursues the Germans who are falling back northwest of Rome.

UNOBSTRUCTED ROUTE INTO 'ETERNAL CITY'

To the east down Highway VI all Germans below Rome Highway have been mopped up, and the Rome Road now presents an unobstructed route right into the Eternal City. Fifth Army men seized the village of Nemi and the heights of Montecerasso and Colletano on Saturday, while spearheads pushed on to Rocca Di Papa a mile east of Lake Albano.

Rearguard Delaying Action

From Reuter's Special Correspondent with the Fifth Army in Italy June 4: The Germans are staging a fierce rear-guard action to delay the Allied forces' entry into Rome, while their troops withdraw. The Fifth Army now hold most of the Collilagiale Mountain Mass, dominating the eastern approaches to Rome.

VEROLI CAPTURED.

From A. K. Quereshi, Associated Press of India Special Correspondent with Indian Troops of the Eighth Army.

Ernici Mountains, Central Italy (Saturday, June 4.) The Indian Division chasing the Germans in the Ernici mountains captured Veroli yesterday. This town which has preserved its mediaeval aspect lies at the top of a 2,000-foot high Hill and overlooks the provincial capital of Frosinone, six miles to the south-west.

The attack on the town developed on Thursday afternoon from the north and the east,, when Indian armoured lancers and a frontier force battalion crossed the Amaseno torrent near the famous Abbey of Casamari and raced against German rearguards. There were 2,000 Germans occupying the town yesterday morning. To get away they employed delaying tactics by fighting still little action and then slipping out at night. After 15 miles of marching that day, the frontier battalion came in sight of the town two miles away to the east and made a beeline for it.

MAJOR RANA OF PUNJAB MUSLIMS ENTERS VEROLI

Under the cover of smoke two companies withdrew to the hollow again. They waited for the waning light of the moon. Might patrols probing into the outskirts found the Germans thinning out. The battlation made a dash, but the Germans, barring a few, had disappeared. The entry into the town was made at first by Punjabi Mussalmans under Major Bakhtiar Rana, closely followed by other companies. Lancers pushed through to keep the Germans on the run. Action was sharp and swift. Fewer than 20 houses in this maze of narrow lanes are battle-scarred. There are no civilian casualties. Five churches, the famous Seminary of the Ninth century and the archives are all intact. British, American and Italian flags were flying when I visited the town two hours after it had been occupied. The inhabitants had given a great reception Indian soldiers. They kissed them and hugged them.

MAYOR PRESENTS SWORD OF TOWN

The Mayor presented Major Rana with the ancient sword of the town. The inhabitants had not seen Indians before. The Germans had spread stories that the Indians were brutes and even cannibals. The first word used by the Indians in Italy—"Amico" (friend)—surprised the civilians.

During the night they had torn up their Fascist identity cards, bits of these were strewn in lanes and about the houses. Vying with each other they took the Indian soldiers into their homes.

The close nature of the country and the obvious lack of room for development leaves no chance for any encirclement and the abundance of cover and camouflage makes interference with demolitions impossible. But Allied planes are giving the Germans no rest. Indian infantry with New Zealand tank support pop up at least suspected places and hit hard as the Germans run. Allied advance in the hills is as fast as it could be.

INCESSANT NAZI ATTACK REPELLED

Fierce Fighting Continues North-west And North Of Jassy

MOSCOW, June 3: Fierce fighting continued north-west and north of Jassy, says a supplement to Saturday's Soviet 'communique'. The Germans strengthened their force by tank units and launched incessant attacks.

The supplement to Soviet 'communique' added: "Soviet troops by powerful fire from all types of arms successfully repulsed the enemy attacks and inflicted great losses in men and material."

The Soviet 'communique' says: "During June 3, north-west and north of Jassy, our troops successfully repelled attacks by strong forces of enemy infantry and tanks. According to verified data 48 German tanks were destroyed in this area on June 2. Twenty-four German aircraft were shot down in air combat or by anti-aircraft fire. In other sectors of the front there were no changes. During yesterday 37 German aircraft were shot down in air combat or by anti-aircraft fire on all fronts."

Reuter's special correspondent in Moscow cables:

As soon as United States Flying Fortresses had landed in Russia after their shuttle raids on Rumanian targets yesterday, American ground crews began the progress of refuelling and "bombing up" ready for the return trip, it was stated here today. There was not a single hitch at the airbase and the flight was so successful that attending doctors and nurses had nothing to do.

When every plane was safely in, the head of the United States Military Mission in Moscow, Major General John R. Dean, made a short speech saying: "This ends for all time any suggestion that the Allies are not fully united in their war effort."—Reuter.

Reds Successful Counter-Attacks

MOSCOW, June 4.

The Moscow radio says: "Not an inch of progress could be made by the Germans yesterday north and north-west of Jassy. The Red army launched a number of successful counter-attacks."—Reuter.

ERROR CAUSES FLUTTER

Story Of Invasion News Broadcast In America

NEW YORK, June 3.

A flash that General Eisenhower had officially announced Allied landings in France was circulated in error by an American news service tonight.

Radio stations throughout America interrupted their programmes to give the news, but retracted a few minutes later when the news service cancelled the flash which had originated from London.

It was stated that the message was due to a transmission error and that the cause was being investigated. It is reported that newspapers and radio stations in America were inundated with telephone calls.

It was later stated that a girl employed in London was practising on the teleprinter and typed erroneous flash. Without knowledge of the editorial staff it was inadvertently run through the transmitter serving New York.

Red Cross And Invasion

LISBON, June 3: With invasion of the Continent all Red Cross activities will temporarily cease in occupied Europe except on the field of battle. Thus six ships on war prisoners' parcel services which are being released from Marseilles on Wednesday after waiting to hear the result of the enquiry into the recent sinking of a Portuguese manned steamer engaged on this service may not make their return journey for some time.

It is believed in shipping circles here that all British NAVICERTS for Mediterranean voyages by Spanish, Portuguese and Swiss ships have from yesterday been virtually suspended.

Even two or three ships which had been allowed to take iron rations for Switzerland to Marseilles and Genoa have been forbidden to proceed. One of the Swiss ships which had already left had her NAVICERTS cancelled by radio and returned to port.

Nazi Stations Being Put Out Of Action

LONDON, June 3: The German radio network ranging over hundreds of miles of north-west Europe is being wrecked by rocket-firing Typhoons and precision bombing Spitfires, stated the Air Ministry news service tonight. Striking at many vital centres, specially trained pilots are making surprise raids on German radio installations. Pilots dive to within 4,000 feet of the ground before releasing their rockets. Several radio stations in the German European network including Calaise and Friesland (Holland) have been silent since Thursday, states Reuter's radio station.

Japs Land Near Tungting Lake

Attempt To Push Towards Changteh

CHUNGKING, June 3.

In the face of continuous Japanese assaults Chinese defenders of Changsha, the capital of the Hunan Province, are holding their lines along the south bank of the Milo River, roughly 40 miles north of the city.

The United States Fourteenth Air Force has put in its appearance in strength over the Hunan battlefield.

To-day General Stilwell's headquarters announced that American Fighter Bombers had been active over the Hunan Front bombing and strafing Japanese troop concentrations, bridges, supply depots and airfields.

In the last 24 hours the main Japanese attack appears to have been in the Pingkiang Sector, about 50 miles north-east of Changsha.

From this point the Japanese hope to advance along the main highway which runs through the Rolling Hill country now green with woods and rice fields.

The new Japanese landing on the south-western shore of Tungting Lake indicates a Japanese attempt to push along the highway west of the Lake from Ansiang towards Changteh from where the highway runs down to Changsha along the southern shore of the Lake.—Reuter.

CHINESE CAPTURE KAITOU

CHUNGKING, June 4.

The Chinese captured Kaitou, north of Tengchung.

This is alternative spelling for Teng-Yueh) on Friday, says a communique. driving towards Watien, 25 air miles north of Tengchung the Chinese captured four villages. The weather again prevented General Chennault's airforce from supporting the operations on the Salween.—Reuter.

Americans Land On Two More Islands

Allied headquarters Southwest Pacific June 4. American forces have landed on two more islands in the Schouten group, Macarthur's communique announces today. They are Owi and Woendi. The landings made on Friday were unopposed.—A. P.

JAPS WITHDRAW N.-E. OF KOHIMA

General Advantage Remains With Allies

KANDY, June 4.

To-day's South-East Asia Command Communique says:—

MANIPUR HILLS:—Our patrols were active near the Aradura spur. South-west of Kohima a Japanese attack estimated at one company cost the enemy some 30 killed. North-East of Kohima the enemy has withdrawn from some of his positions. In a raid on enemy communications 30 miles to the south-east of Kohima our troops captured large quantities of supplies, including ammunition and petrol.

South-west of Bishenpur there was some enemy shelling on 2nd June. The enemy has withdrawn from Gun Hill, leaving behind many dead. Operations to clear the Japanese pockets still remaining north and north-west of Bishenpur continued. South-east of the Imphal plain our troops took several prisoners besides inflicting casualties.

BITTER FIGHTING

Bad weather has done little so far to slow up effort of either side on the Burma front and bitter fighting continues, according to a military spokesman who explained to press correspondents the latest position on the front and reviewed events during May. No important changes had occurred, he said, but in general the advantage had remained with us.

JAPS' OBJECTIVE IS IMPHAL STILL!

Mr. D. R Mankekar, API war correspondent at 14th Army H. Q. in the course of his war review says while the relief of Imphal is the immediate Allied objective the Japanese objective after two months, still remains the capture of Imphal and his activity elsewhere is only an aid to that end. —A. P.

VICEROY'S REPLY TO SIR S. ASKURAN

BOMBAY, June 4.

Sir Shantidas Askuran, Sheriff of Bombay, has received the following telegram from His Excellency the Viceroy today:—

"Many thanks for your telegram. Government of India are doing what they can to provide building materials, and informed Bombay Government by telegram on 29th May——Viceroy".

Jayakar To Meet Gandhiji Shortly

Exchange Of Views In Light Of Replies From Leaders

BOMBAY, Sunday.

The political leaders to whom Mahatma Gandhi addressed letters from Juhu about the third week of May, it is understood, have sent their replies.

The Rt. Hon. M. R. Jayakar will call on Gandhiji shortly to discuss the political situation. After addressing the letter to Dr. Jayakar on May 20, Gandhiji sent Mr. Pyarelal to ascertain Dr. Jayakar's views. These have already been conveyed to Mahatmaji by his Secretary. The Gandhi-Jayakar meeting which will be fixed on a day when Mahatmaji is physically in a condition to stand the strain of serious political talks, will afford an opportunity for a detailed exchange of views, also in the light of replies received from other leaders. The exact date of the Gandhi-Jayakar meeting has not been fixed so far.

SUNDAY, A DAY OF REST

Sunday was a restful day for Mahatmaji, the visitors being limited to half a dozen. Mr. Bhulabhai Desai and Mr. G. D. Birla were among those who called at Gandhiji's shack.

PUBLIC PRAYERS

Ten thousand people joined in public prayers in the evening Prior to the commencement of the prayers, Gandhiji stood near the barbed wire fencing for an unusually long time beckoning them to keep silent. The appeal was repeated on the microphone by one of the attendants on Gandhiji. Mr. N. M. Joshi was among those present at the prayers.

MAHATMA URGED TO SEE VICEROY

LUCKNOW, June 4.

That Mr. Gandhi could make the greatest single contribution towards India's political settlement and that he should see the Viceroy to explore avenues to end the present impasse was stressed by R. B. Kunwar Guru Narain, who presided over the U. P. Provincial Hindu Sanghatanists Conference held in Ganga Prasad Memorial Hall, Lucknow, on Saturday night —A. P.

TRIBUTES TO SOVIET RUSSIA

BOMBAY, Sunday.

A resolution expressing joy at Gandhiji's release and hoping for his speedy recovery was passed at the concluding session of the first All-India Congress of the Friends of the Soviet Union at the Convocation Hall to-day.

The resolution further hoped that Gandhiji's release would lead to a solution of the political deadlock and the establishment of a Government representative of all sections of our people so that India may effectively counter famine and Japanese aggression and shape her future side by side by side with the Soviets and China.

The resolution was moved from the chair by Mr. S. A. Brelvi who presided in the unavoidable absence of Mrs. Vijaylaxmi Pandit owing to indisposition.

Nearly half a dozen resolutions were adopted at the Congress including those of sending greetings to the the Red Army and the Soviet People and condemning Nazi vandalism.

TRIBUTE TO RED ARMY

Dr. R. Naidu moved the first resolution which was seconded by Mr. Jambhekar and supported by Mr. Nurul Hasan (U.P.) and in which a tribute was paid to the Soviet people and the heroic Red Army on their victorious march against their Fascist aggressor.

The resolution stated that by their stand they had not only defended the freedom of Russia but saved the whole world from disaster. By this they had put the enslaved peoples of Europe back on their feet, and also smashed Hitler's plan of world domination. The resolution expressed looked forward eagerly to the day of the final victory in which it saw hopes for a new world rid of Fascism and Imperialism in every shape or form and that bright future when India with happy collaboration with her great neighbours China and Russia would help to advance 'the cause of freedom and democracy everywhere. Dr. Naidu in moving the resolution pointed out that the great part played by Russia and her Red Army was brought into relief by the fact that the war that Russia was involved in was the grimmest in world history. Dr. Naidu referred to the magnificent contributions made by Russian scientists whose workers formed the basis of all Russian achievements.

Mr. Jambhekar in seconding the resolution pointed out that in crushing Nazism Russian victory would also lead to the disappearance of imperialism.

NAZI VANDALISM

Another resolution condemned in scathing language the vandalism of the Nazis by which art treasures and cultural monuments were razed to the ground indicted the unmitigated brutality of the Nazis for trying to wipe out the Soviet people and their achievements.

Another resolution which was moved by Prof. Hiren Mukerjee (Bengal) and seconded by Prof. Junankar (Ahmedabad) defined the role of the friends of the Soviet Union thus:

"The Friends of the Soviet Union bring together in their organisation all over India patriots belonging to all parties and to no party, on the broad basis of the goodwill which all sections of our people feel towards the Soviet Union and thus forge the bond of unity and understanding between two peoples.

With this aim in view, the F.S.U. works in order to popularise among our people the social and cultural achievements of the Soviet Union and to promote among both our peoples a close study and sympathetic understanding of each other's achievements and aspirations.

The F.S.U. realises that to-day a closer understanding among our people of the Soviet Union and of its fight against Fascist aggression will help to strengthen the unity of all those forces in every country which stand for a new world of human freedom and happiness."

It appealed to all patriots "to join the F.S.U. and help it to be worthy of the great task it has undertaken to perform."

CULTURAL RELATION.

The Congress also passed the following resolution moved by Mrs. Wadia and seconded by Mr. Satyanarayan (Andhra).

"This Congress welcomes the fact that the door is now open for the Soviet Union to help us to deepen the bond of friendship between their people and our people by regularly supplying India with literature, posters, pictures, films and other means of cultural enlightenment and warmly thanks the VOKS and the distributors of U.S.S.R. films for the Far East for using this opportunity to the best of their ability.

This Congress demands that the fullest facilities be given to the VOKS to acquaint our people with all aspects of Soviet life and culture. Soviet Artistes, for example, must have the freedom to tour India and to present their programmes.

This Congress appeals to all proprietors of Theatres in India to help us in our work by extending their hand of sympathy and friendship to the Soviet film distributors and to Soviet Artistes."

It was also resolved on the motion of Mr. Mahendra Shah seconded by Mr. Dilip Bose to establish their headquarters in Bombay and to bring out a periodical as soon as circumstances permitted.

The constitution of the All-India Friends of the Soviet Union was adopted.

The following Executive of the All-India F.S.U. was appointed: President, Mrs. Sarojini Naidu; Vice-Presidents, Mr S. A. Brelvi, Poet Valathal, Dr. Bhipendranath Dutta and K. Srinivasan, Editor of the "Hindu"; General Secretary, Mr. R. M. Jambhekar. Joint Secretaries, Prof Junarkar and Prof. Hiren Mukherji.

Treasurer: Mr. Mahendra Shah.

Mr. S. A. Brelvi in his concluding remarks from the chair congratulated the organizers on the enthusiasm they had aroused for the Congress. Over 1,100 members of the Reception Committee had been enrolled and messages received from eminent men and women belonging to different political parties showed that the Friends of Soviet Union moved had a nation-wide appeal and support. It was most gratifying that this movement presented a platform on which men and women of different parties could meet together as co-workers. Members of the Union had to realize the scope of its function. There was a tendency among some members to regard themselves solely as friends of Soviet Union ignoring their paramount duty to their own country. The Friends of Soviet Union was, above all, a body of Indian patriots where first allegiance was to India. The object of the Union was to promote among the peoples of India and Russia close and sympathetic study of the cultures, aspirations and achievements of each other. The Union should try to give as much attention to the work of spreading, as far as it could, information about India's culture, aspiration and achievements among the people of Russia as to that of acquainting the people of India with the culture and achievements of Russia.

India's friendship with Russia was not based on a spirit of bargaining. They did not seek the aid of Russia or of any other foreign country in gaining freedom. For, they realized that freedom secured through foreign aid could only be maintained with foreign aid. Indians did not seek such freedom. They were determined to win freedom with their own unaided effort. When India was free, she would enter into treaties with Russia, China and other Asiatic and European countries and these treaties would entail reciprocal obligations. Meanwhile, India's friendship for Russia did not demand anything from Russia. India was a friend of Russia not merely because she was fighting for her freedom but mainly because Russia was fighting for the gains of the Revolution of 1917 which embodied lessons for India and the rest of the world.

Messages were received by the Congress from Nawabzada Liaquat Ali Khan, Mr. Jaffer Imam and Mr. V. Shantaram.

POET'S TRIBUTE

From 6-30 p.m. to 10 p.m. tributes to the Soviet people and the Red Army were paid by well-known Urdu, Hindi, Bengali, Marathi, Gujarati and Malayalam poets. Among the poets who recited their poems were Josh, Saghis Nizami, Harin Chattopadhyaya Swapnartha, Naraindra Sharma, Machwe, Vasant Bhagwat, Abdur Rahman Tabassum, Bhogilal Gandhi, Chandalia, Nazar Hyderabadi, Kaifi Azam, Jaswant Thakker, Sajjan and Makhdum

Prof. Hiren Mukherji made a short speech referring to the cultural achievement of Soviet Russia.

Mr. S. A. Brelvi in his concluding speech thanked the poets who had recited the poems, the fraternal delegates who had participated in the Congress and all those including the volunteers and donors, who had helped to make the Congress a success.

SUCCESSFUL

Please accept our congratulations; but see that you keep reading Essay-books during your College days. The "Essay" question carries many marks, and there are no other better books for the purpose than

MARTIN'S 202 COLLEGE ESSAYS.

For the study of CORRECT ENGLISH, see that you have always by your side

MARTIN'S DICTIONARY OF ENGLISH USAGE.

This reference book will point out to you your mistakes in a simple manner. You will not need the help of your Professor

NOT SUCCESSFUL

Please accept our sympathy. Although you worked harder than your friend, may we tell you why he had a better luck than you? For the simple reason that your friend made it a point always to read books on essays, letters and dialogues.

Your friend read the following:—

MARTIN'S SCHOOL ESSAYS AND LETTERS.
MARTIN'S EVERYBOY'S BOOK OF LETTERS.
MARTIN'S ENGLISH DIALOGUES.

☞ Don't forget that questions on essays, letters and dialogues carry quite a number of marks, and therefore you can never hope to pass if you do not read books on these subjects.

BUY

Martin's A DICTIONARY OF ENGLISH USAGE. It will show you how to find out mistakes in your own English in a simple manner. You will not need the help of your teacher.

EARN WHILE YOU LEARN

A BOMBAY BOY'S EXPERIENCE

The Hindupur Instrument Mechanics Training Centre is becoming very popular with trainees from all parts of the country. Here is a letter from a Parsi boy recently sent from Bombay. Read it and follow his example.

I.M.T.C.
No. 1414.
Hindupur, 29-5-44.

Dear Mr. Tawde,

I am taking this opportunity to write to you a full report of my doings and experiences in the I.M.T.C.

I have started playing Hockey, Cricket and Boxing. We had a hockey match yesterday and a cricket match to-day. I am sorry to say we lost both, but we have had very little or no practice. Both Mr. Sapre and Mr. Mokashi have asked me to send your their best regards.

We have in our midst at present, a new trainee from the Bombay Presidency. He is Mr. Urankar of Belgaum.

Now, every morning when we go to the station for our daily tea, we look around to see whether there are any boys from Bombay. We are very anxious to have more boys from Bombay.

Uptill now the classes and practicals are quite easy, but I will soon be learning about General Engineering tools now and I have heard that this not so easy. Anyway this is a very nice and a very interesting course.

Believe me, Sir, I am indeed very thankful to you for having sent me to this Centre, which I have already begun to love.

Yours faithfully,
BILLY ANTIA.

This is not only Mr. Antia's experience. Every trainee has nothing but praise for I.M.T.C. If you want to solve your life's problem and relieve your parents of the heavy expenditure of education follow Mr. Antia's example and enrol in the Technical Branch of the Defence Services. There are other trades too, like Draughtsmen, Surveyors and Wireless Operators, etc., in the Technical Training Scheme sponsored by the Government of India.

Drop in for a chat in the office of the National Service Labour Tribunal, Hassan Chambers, Fort, Bombay, or see the Deputy Educational Inspectors of your District or the nearest Technical Recruiting Officer.

The letter is on view in the Bombay Office of the National Service Labour Tribunal.

BOYS & GIRLS

To-day you have passed Matriculation Examination and we offer you our congratulations on your success.

This achievement of yours will be regarded as a valuable contribution in wiping out the blot of illiteracy on India.

But do not stop here. You must carry on your studies. India needs so many youths in the field of industry. So instead of seeking any employment as clerk after passing Matriculation Examination, you should join some Industrial Department and continue your studies.

Our good wish are with you in your success.

John Barel

The Bombay Chronicle

INDIA AND RUSSIA

The first All-India Congress of the Friends of the Soviet Union was held in Bombay during the week-end, a quarter of a century after the establishment of the Union. It is significant that the Congress is held so late after the event that inspires it. It is no less significant that it is now held publicly and with almost all sorts of people attending it. During the last war and for some time after, there was such vile and mendacious propaganda against the Bolsheviks as has not been surpassed even today. But with all the lapses that attended the Russian revolution and vividly recalled to one's mind the horrors of the French revolution, the inauguration of the Soviet Union has been regarded by all intelligent and honest people as one of the greatest political achievements in the history of the world. Its achievements in peace have amazed the world even more than those in the last war. As for its role in the present war, it beggars description; its epic grandeur has wrung admiration from friends and foes alike. Well may Mrs. Naidu ask: "Who is there alive to-day whose old age or youth or childhood is not thrilled to the marrow by the current chronicles of the superb and unrivalled valour, resource and endurance, the un-aided and unconquerable resistance of Russian people not merely in defence of their own hard-won freedom but in defence of the honour and security of civilisation itself against the senile and ruthless menace of brutal Fascist aggression?"

Thus it is that though the Soviet Union has been rather late in capturing the heart of the world it has captured it all right. The friends of the Union are to be reckoned in India in millions. If Indians are not more gushing in their praise of Russia it is only because they are terribly preoccupied not merely with the war against the familiar brand of fascism but also against what Mrs. Vijayalaxmi Pandit called the "subtler form of fascism in their own country which is responsible for the denial of freedom to her people and for the imprisonment of Indian leaders than whom there are no greater anti-Nazis and anti-Fascists in the world." In the struggle for freedom and the tasks to be achieved thereafter India has much to learn from the Soviet Union. That is why all classes of Indians are earnestly studying Russia, all that it stands for and its springs of action. It is not a whim that induced Gandhiji to study the nearly 2,000 pages of Marx's "Das Capital." While India's intense interest in Russia obviously means that we share her ideals of equality and freedom, it does not imply that we shall slavishly copy her methods nay, as Mrs. Pandit observed: "The slavish imitation even of the good in others is a belittling of one's own capacity to progress and a lack of appreciation of those basic principles which alone help a people forward. It is only from one's own inner urge and an understanding of those problems which affect humanity as a whole that the progress of a nation is possible." India is making her own contribution to the cause of freedom and world peace and we feel confident that both she and Russia will learn much from each other and thereby better promote their common ideals. Russia, India and China can, through united effort, overcome fascism and imperialism everywhere, and ensure peace and freedom for the whole world.

FRANKLY SPEAKING

Wise Decision

Good news comes from the Italian front. We welcome the Wilhemstrasse announcement that all German troops had been withdrawn from Rome to save the city. If the announcement is true and if Rome has been genuinely converted into an open city, this action of the Nazis deserves appreciation. In historical, cultural and religious associations and traditions Rome is one of the richest cities in the world and deserves to be saved. In helping to spare it, the Nazis have shown a commendable spirit. And anyhow it would not have served much useful purpose if Kesselring had decided to continue to use the military advantages that Rome communications offer. He might have held up the Allied advance for a few days at the expense of Rome, but the delay would not have helped the Germans to any important extent at all. It was a wise decision to evacuate Rome.

Stage Set

The announcement also underlines Allied military successes in the drive towards Rome. The Fifth and Eighth Armies have now linked upon Highway VI and Field Marshal Kesselring's last defence line South of Rome has been breached at several places. The way is now open for General Alexander to march forward. But Kesselring has neither been trapped nor decisively beaten yet. He is withdrawing north of Rome intact and will have to be pursued. That is the meaning of General Mark Clarke's statement that the objective of the Allied Armies is not so much Rome as the defeat and destruction of German forces. But the conquest of Rome will be all the same an event of great importance politically and strategically. And it must set the stage not only for an invasion of the "southern flank of Europe" but also for the opening of the long awaited Second Front in Western Europe.

Reuter's Protest!

Defending U. S. Office of War Information expenditure in India Mr. Alling, Deputy Director, committed the crime of suggesting that Reuter's news service left much to be desired and something to be countered, too. Mr. Alling's testimony has aroused the ire of Reuter's and Mr. Alling is charged with casting "a slur on British newspapers which own Reuter's." The quarrel between the U. S. Office of War Information and Reuter's over India naturally interests us, and we cannot help confessing that assumption of injured innocence by Reuter's does not impress us at all. That pose, in fact, irritates more than it amuses us. We do not intend here to compare the worth and value of the official American and Reuter's news services. What concerns us is the implied claim of Reuter's that they serve India fully, fairly and truthfully.

The Test

This is far from the facts. Reuter's service is distinguished more by its failure to cater to Indian needs than its success in supplying them. Instances after instances can be quoted to show that news stories that are of real interest to India or constitute a full, fair and truthful representation of facts about India are inadequately reported and often enough not reported at all by Reuter's. India and the Indian point of view are treated by Reuter's, to put it very mildly, with utter indifference. Much that is happening in this country and may interest the world is ignored by them. Much that is said, written and done outside and interests Indians is ignored by them. And this practice is not confined to stories directly connected with India. Happenings in the Middle East and particularly in Palestine vitally concern the people of India and not Muslims alone. How much of them are reported and how often? The test is simple. Let Reuter's compare, on any day what they send out to and from India with what they ignore and then let them say whether their full, fair and truthful presentation of news is given from the British or Indian point of view and whether it pays regard to matters of interest to India and Indians or those of Britain and the British. To crown all, Reuter's enjoy a well-protected monopoly.

New College At Dharwar

We cordially welcome the announcement of the Karnatak Education Board that its proposed Arts College at Dharwar has received the approval of the University of Bombay and will open on the 20th June, 1944. For the present, it is stated, the College will make provision for the teaching of the First year course and the Inter Arts course, the classical languages to be taught being Sanskrit and Ardhamagadhi and regional languages being Kannada and Marathi. The Principal of the college will be Prof. B. M. Srikantia, M.A., B.L., retired University Professor of English and Honorary Professsor of Kannada of the University of Mysore. And he will be assisted by a staff possessing high academic qualifications. We feel confident that this latest venture of the Karnatak Education Board, which has already several educational institutions to its credit, will be an unqualified success. Mr. B. G. Kher, who visited Dharwar in January 1942, said of the Board that its record of service was "one of which any institution could well be proud" and that "the selfless team-work of the staff has achieved fine results." The College will doubtless enhance its reputation and enable it, we hope, to extend it ere long into a first grade college preparing students for degree examinations.

"Peace Hospital"

We wholeheartedly endorse the appeal, published in our columns a few days ago, for funds for the "Peace Hospital" at Honavar in North Kanara District. This is the poorest district in the province and is sadly lacking in medical facilities in spite of its high incidence of malaria and other diseases. Though the town of Honavar has a municipal dispensary, it is too small to supply the needs of the town and its many adjoining villages. The proposed hospital will cost at least Rs. 40,000 for the necessary buildings alone. We trust the people of Kanara and Kanara residents in Bombay will soon contribute the amount. We trust, too, that Government and the municipality will give the hospital generous grants.

U.S.A. STANDS FOR INDIA'S FREEDOM

President Of India League Of America On Hull's Statement

NEW YORK, June 3.

Commenting on the Secretary of State Mr. Cordell Hull's message of assurance to small nations and his remarks on liberty and freedom, Sardar J. J. Singh, President of the India League of America said "Mr. Hull's previous statement gave the people of India to understand that Mr. Hull believed freedom was something to be given as a prize for good behaviour, and not that it was the inherent right of all peoples to be free.

Therefore, this statement in which Mr. Hull says 'We have encouraged all nations to aspire to liberty and to enjoy it' will be received with great satisfaction in India. Mr. Hull further added that this country has always had "consistent desire of liberty for everybody and freedom for aspiring peoples everywhere.' I hope that 'everywhere' in this case means everywhere and does not exclude India as in the case of the Atlantic Charter. This statement from the Secretary of State will allay a great deal of suspicion and distrust of the United States' ultimate post-war objectives.—Reuter.

Scindia's And Dufferin Cadets

In veiw of the controversy that has been going on in the Press of late, regarding the Scindia's refusal to release their Officers to offer their services elsewhere, I feel it would not be out of place to state and place before the public my own case. I am grateful to the Dufferin Old Cadets' Association for putting forward the true facts and figures.

I served the Scindia Steam Navigation Company, from February 1935 till Nover 1943 in various capacities. In November 1943 I took leave to appear for my Master's B. O. T. Certificate which I obtained in March 1944. This qualification enables me to apply for the post of Pilot in the Bombay Port Trust amongst other things. In the normal course all I would have been required to do was to apply to B. P. T., as I would in no way be bound to my former employers, my last shipping agreement under which men of the Merchant Marine serve, having expired. But here comes the snag. The Scindia for some motive known only to themselves and easily guessed by others have concluded a sort of an agreement with all Services including the B. P. T. that no application from ex-officers be entertained without a formal release of their services from the Scindia. I put in my resignation which the Company refused to accept. Their unofficial "Gentleman's Agreement" restricts by freedom to offer my services to anybody but their benign selves. I am sure, it will be appreciated that while a man is willing to spend nine years of his youth, and therefore the best part of his life at sea qualifying himself in the hope that at one not far off future date he may hold a position worthy of his training and qualification, he shall not be denied the freedom to offer his services to whichever employer he wills.

Congress Of Friends Of Soviet Union

The Friends of the Soviet Union are meeting in an All-India Congress on 3rd and 4th June, 1944 under the presidency of Srimathi Vijayalaxmi Pandit. A leaflet advertising the Congress calls it a "Cultural Festival" and says: "It will be the greatest demonstration so far in India, of patriots belonging to all parties and no party, paying their homage of admiration to the Soviet country and learning from its flaming example of heroism and solidarity."

To a person not replete with Russophil sentiments, this outburst gives plenty of food for thought. In the first place, that mere patriots from any country should admire the Soviet Union and collect together to pay their homage to workers and fighters of freedom who know no fatherland seems a little incongruous. One does not know whether the heroes of Russia will appreciate the compliment. One cannot, on the other hand, doubt the sincerity of the friends of the Soviet Union. The Congress surely is not meeting with its tongue in its check.

If, again, one has to admire the flaming example of heroism and solidarity of any country, why must one pick out Russia? Why not England which for a time fought the German menace alone—in those prehistoric days, of course, when the Soviet Union was an ally of Nazi Germany—or Poland which fought single-handed for a brief period of a few weeks the combined onslaught of both Nazi brutes and Russian heroes. Or do we, in the case of Poland, draw the line according to the well-known proverb: "Nothing succeeds like success and the one thing it is most difficult to pardon is failure?"

But let us not be cynical on this great occasion when Indian patriots headed by Mrs. Pandit greet Russian patriots headed by Mr. Stalin. The greeting is all the more poignant since we do not know whether Russian patriots want it and when we are almost certain that it will not reach them. The good that men do is never wasted no matter what Mr. Shakespeare may have thought about it.

What exactly have the heroes of the Soviet Union done that we may pay them our homage? They have defeated and driven out of their country the embattled forces of Nazi Germany who came to conquer it. They have, in other words, vindicated the old principle that a great people can always win thenr freedom or, if freedom is already there, successfully defend it provided they are prepared to pay the price. In June 1941 the German onslaught on Russian began. For a time it looked as if, first at Moscow and then at Stalingrad, the German steam roller would flatten out Russian resistance once for all and the great principle of freedom will perish from the earth. Slowly, ever so slowly start with, the tide of battle turned. With unexampled courage, heroism and sacrifice the heroes of Russia pushed back the German hordes till to-day so that the nightmare of slavery and degradation no longer haunts the minds of the Russian people.

People throughout history have shed their blood without stint for that magic world 'freedom.' No matter where they are or what they are, they deserve the gratitude and homage of freedom-loving people from all over the world.

Indian patriots would do well to remember on this great occasion that it is far better to be free than to admire freedom in others and that the greatest homage that they can pay to the known and unknown warriors who died in the great battles of Moscow, Sebastopol, Stalingrad, is to refuse to remain slaves. No free man waits for the homage of bondmen; he takes it as a tribute due to him as a matter of course or rejects it as an impertinence.

INDIAN

AMERICA MUST RELEASE GOLD FOR BRITAIN

Increasing Sterling Balances In Favour Of India Raise Scare In England

LONDON, June 2.

"The Economist" features an article from Lord Keynes on Anglo-Indian finances:

Lord Keynes explained that Britain incurred the staggering war debts because she waged the war without counting the cost "with fanatical single-mindedness." The agreement between India and Britain for settling war obligations provides the best evidence of that single-mindedness for which "fanatical" is not the sole appropriate adjective. Besides repaying virtually the whole of the Indian Government's prewar debt of 360 million sterling, India's sterling assets since the outbreak of war have risen from 52 to 737 million, leaving only 200 to 250 million sterling of private British investment in India. The debtor-creditor relation between Britain and India has thus shifted by 1045 million sterling. By the accident of the Indo-British financial agreement, India, during the war, has invested in Britain and repaid sterling debt to about twice the amount of British capital which went to India over the preceding three-quarters of a century.

'PRIMA FACIE' DEFECT

'Prima Facie' the financial agreement which achieved such arbitrary fantastic results contains some serious defect. The agreement made in November 1939 was, appropriate when India seemed well outside the orbit of hostilities. The agreement's whole basis, however, became shattered when Japan entered the war. Early in 1943 the British Government proposed a revision, but the Indian Government refused. Sir Jeremy Raisman in the 1944 budget explained that India bears the cost of troops raised in India and deemed necessary for India's local defence and the cost of equipping them with such resources as India herself provides. All heavy equipment, even of these troops is lend-leased by the United States or provided without charge by the British Government. Britain bears the cost of all Indian troops serving outside India, including the Indian forces in Burma.

INFLATION IN INDIA

The cost of airfields constructed in India is borne by the Indian Government only if required for India's local defence. India provides some reciprocal lend-lease to the United States, but not to Britain. Total defence expenditure in India, for the last four years is 1268 million sterling of which Britain has borne 523 million and India 545 million. The impact in India has been favourable by the improving creditor position, but unfavourable because of the responsibility which this externally financed expenditure bears for inflation in India. These consequences of financial settlement cannot be considered accidents of war. There has never been any question of repudiating obligations, but the settlement is not sacrosanct regarding future transactions and there seemed ample grounds for some adjustment when Italy and later Japan entered the war. There can be no question of exploiting India or placing additional burdens on her which lives all too close to the margin of bare subsistence.

But India herself would gain something from a renegotiation of this financial settlement which would give her a chance of a more favourable settlement of her rapidly increasing claims on Britain. The bigger that claim, the smaller the chance of converting it from the present virtually blocked character into a multilaterally convertible asset. India's whole monetary structure is based on sterling and by undermining sterling, India will be injuring her own interests. The argument about the impossibility of increasing the burden on the poor Indian peasant loses most of its force if one realises that the weight of the whole defence expenditure in India—whether financed by the Indian or by Allied Governments—is currently borne by India's population. In real terms that sacrifice is being fully made now. It is only a question whether its financial counterpart shall be borne by the British or the Indian tax-payer.

THE POOR PAY

Actually by allowing the burden to be distributed through crudest of all fiscal machines, namely, currency inflation, far greater sacrifices are currently being exacted from the poorer classes in India than if the whole defence expenditure were being budgeted by the Indian Government and distributed according to capacity to pay. No drastic redistribution of the financial burden of defence expenditure in India is suggested, but readjustment of the financial settlement in the light of the 1944 instead of the 1939 situation would benefit Britain and India herself. The matter is urgent because, as the East Asia Command's plans unfold, extremely financed expenditure in India is steadily expanding. The capital account between India and Britain daily becomes increasingly distorted and the inflationary forces in India gather momentum.

INDO-BRITISH BURDENS

Reuter's city correspondent comments:—

This plea for preventing a further swelling of India's sterling balances is likely to command an almost unanimous agreement since otherwise, the whole thing will soon reduce itself to absurdity.

After discussing the matter today for four solid hours in the highest official quarters concerned, I think everybody agrees with the physical side and this agreement has cruelly burden India during the war while the financial side creully burdens Britain after the war. Between them, Indian and British men of goodwill can and will reach some arrangement better than that. Assuredly these sterling balances cannot be allowed to continue to grow indefinitely.

ONUS LIES ON U. S.

The real onus seems largely to lie on the United States which alone can provide bullion or goods to India because: FIRSTLY, all Britain's gold long ago went to the United States, SECONDLY, Britain's concentration on the war effort leaves a vastly smaller margin of the non-military goods than the United States enjoys. An ideal solution (other than massive shipments of goods from the United States to India which is presumably impracticable during the war) would be for the United States to Lend-Lease great quantity of gold to Britain for India. Last year the Americans might have responded to the great humane appeal for say even 2,000 million dollars worth of gold which might have averted the Bengal famine (by the familiar process of inducing dishoarding of foodstuffs by enabling hoarding of bullion a principle which though not on a massive scale the Americans have already endorsed, regarding not only India and the Middle-East but even regarding China, where they deliberately incurred the risk or certainty that the gold would reach the Japanese.

INDIAN FAMINE

The human appeal would still be strong—India still has precious little safety margin above the famine level—and might touch the Americans who at heart are a very generous people. Nobody on earth cares whether the Kentucky Vaults hold twenty or twenty-two billion dollars gold, but everybody on earth ought to care that hundreds of thousands of Indians died last year of famine which the gold might have averted. Any such transfer would aggravate Britain's Lend-Lease debt to the United States which correspondingly reduce sterlings and above all would strengthen India's war effort.

The forthcoming Breton Woods Monetary Conference may incidentally provide an occasion which the Americans can be shown great the opportunity and responsibility they now have. As India increasingly becomes the base for the war against the Japanese which the Americans emphatically regard as their war—American are likely to be more responsive to the argument that they ought to carry a greater share of the responsibility for India's war effort—a responsibility which has hitherto fallen wholly disproportionately on Britain.—Reuter.

Communal Stores & Rationing

As there has been considerable discussion on the propriety of requiring co-operative and communal stores to furnish deposits to the Rationing authorities, I would be grateful if you would publish the following explanation of the correct position.

The Government is fully aware of the fact that these stores are not profit-making concerns and the service rendered by them to the public is appreciated. For this very reason they were not asked to furnish deposits when such deposits were originally taken from all ordinary authorised retail distributors.

It will be agreed that though it is desirable that the service which these communal and co-operative stores have been rendering should continue, it is obligatory on the management to observe the rules and regulations governing the issue of rations and it is hardly fair to cover up serious defects in the conduct of a store under the plea that the store is not a profit-making concern.

Unfortunately, the fact that a co-operative or communal store is run on non-profit basis does not prevent irregularities or unauthorised issue of rations by the paid staff actually handling and issuing the grain and unless the Committee running the store exercises careful supervision there is nothing to prevent the staff disposing of some rationed articles in the black market.

I regret to say that several cases of serious irregularity have been detected recently and the usual plea of the Managing Committee is that they were not aware of what was being done by the paid staff.

It has, therefore, become necessary to insist that when serious irregularities in the issue of rations or maintenance of accounts are detected in the case of certain co-operative or communal stores, such stores should furnish a deposit as an earnest of the Managing Committees' obligation to exercise proper supervision over the working of the store. I would like to emphasise the fact that such deposits are NOT demanded from all communal and co-operative stores but only from stores found guilty, after careful enquiry, of serious irregularities or gross carelessness.

I might add that as similar lapses on the part of a profit-making store are punished far more severely, Managing Committees of communal or co-operative stores ought not to resent the simple precautionary measure of furnishing a deposit. The Committee is in its turn free to insist on a similar deposit from its paid staff.

The Housing Problem

The scarcity of housing accommodation is the most pressing problem in the city at present. Owing to restrictions put on the construction of new buildings by Government and the recent explosions in the city, the acuteness of the problem is further intensified.

The Municipal Commissioner has sent a scheme to Government for constructing one thousand tenements each consisting of a room and a verandah. Government machinery will move, if it will move at all, slowly. Therefore, sanitation and health being the chief concern of the Municipality its duty does not end in sending a proposal to Government, but it must make the Government realise the danger.

Generosity?

"But for the generosity of the British Government, Mr. Gandhi, would have been long ago a victim to a firing squad" says Mr. H. N. Parekh in an Anglo-Indian paper. If any such brutal, unhappy incident had occurred, India would have long ago attained her full independence.

Pope Speaks Without Pomp

LONDON, June 2: The German Transocean News Agency said the Pope's speech to-day took place without any pomp in his grey and plain private library. While speaking, the Pope stood behind his desk with two chamberlains at his side. Sixteen Cardinals sat at a wide circle. Their dean, 93 year old Cardinal Granito di Belmote, was absent as he is at present bedridden, suffering from infirmity of old age. In his place, Cardinal Enrico Gasparri transmitted the Cardinal's wishes. No loud speakers were mounted in Saint Peters Square.—Reuter.

U. S. Cargo Of Bombs To Blast Germany

LONDON, June 2: During May, the United States Strategic Air Forces in Europe operating from bases in United Kingdom and Italy dropped more than 63,000 tons of bombs on targets in German-occupied Countries and the Balkans, it is officially disclosed to-day.

1,268 Axis aircraft were destroyed in the air. The United States losses were 481 heavy bombers and 232 fighters— loss ratio of 1.59 per cent of bombers dispatched and 1.19 of fighters.

TWO MAIN DIFFICULTIES

"Scotsman" sees two main difficulties to be overcome in planning India's economic future. "The first is the force of tradition. Reform in agricultural economics will be hampered by social and religious customs The second difficulty is that most of the reconstruction subjects are in the provincial field. An All India plan has to be built up out of provincial and state plans."

"HEALTHY SIGN"

"Economist" writes, "It certainly is a healthy sign that political discussion in India has taken a new turn away from the old and arid discussions of constitutional and communal forms which have so signally failed to produce any vestige of National agreement to assume that through the indispensable sphere of material improvement a short cut has been found towards a solution of the political problems which so far have proved so intractable."—Reuter.

American Casualties In South-West Pacific

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN SOUTH-WEST PACIFIC, June 2: Mr. Nelson T. Johnston, United States Minister in Australia, stated today that far fewer American troops had been killed in action in the entire South-West Pacific operations than were killed at the Anzio Beach-head in Italy.—Reuter.

German Underground Manifesto Reaches England

LONDON.—A ten-point Manifesto, issued from within Germany by a secret and illegal meeting of Germans of many different political colorings, has succeeded in reaching England, where it has recently been published by the "Allies Inside Germany" and "Free German League of Culture in Great Britain" groups. The ten points of the Manifesto are as follows:

1. Immediate suspension of hostilities. Recall of German army to Germany and renunciation of all conquests.
2. Overthrow of the Hitler Government and formation of a National Democratic Peace Government.
3. Arrest and punishment of those responsible for the war and confiscation of their property.
4. Liberation of the arrested and convicted clergymen, deputies, party and Trade Union leaders and those imprisoned by the Hitler Government for political activities. Abolition of concentration camps and of the humiliating race laws.
5. Freedom of speech, press, and assembly, freedom of religion and opinion. Freedom of political, economic, and cultural organizations.
6. Abolition of all economic laws enforced by the Hitler Government to the detriment of the people. Restoration of full economic freedom on the land and among the small traders, protection of the small and medium enterprise in agriculture, trade, and industry. Fair and just distribution of the tax burden. State aid for industries producing consumer goods and for the export trade. State protection of legally acquired property.
7. The right to work, just wages, 8 hour day, the right of holidays for all workers and employees. Restoration of the former rights of the civil servants. Equal educational facilities for the young.
8. Adequate support for war victims and their relatives from funds accrued from the confiscation of property of war criminals and war profiteers.
9. Foreign policy based on international collaboration with all people and all states. Recognition of the independence of all nations.
10. Convocation of a national assembly on the basis of equal and direct suffrage by secret ballot in order to work out a democratic constitution and material guarantees of law and order. (Worldover Press.)

Films In Parliament

Parliament has now got its own cinema. Housed in a large committee room just off the historic Westminster Hall, the apparatus was formally presented the other day to the Lord Chancellor and the Speaker as the chief officers of both Houses.

Mr. A. J. Rank, one of the leading figures in the British cinema industry, has presented the projector and sound apparatus to enable peers and M.P.s to sea news reels and educational films.

In accepting the gift, the Speaker expressed the view that no modern Parliament should be without its cinema. He thinks the Westminster one will have special value in showing M.P.s the problems of the Colonial territories for which they have to legislate.

During the war the Parliamentary cinema will not be solely an educational instrument. Members and officials will find that it provides them with amusement during evenings when they are on fire-watching duty but when no alert has sounded.

The fact that no "awful consequences" have followed the release of Manatma Gandhi about a month ago is adduced by the communist "Daily Worker" of London to show the "hollowness of the excuses of the Government for preventing not only the release of other Congress leaders but also of their meeting and consulting together".

It is obvious that the London Comrade-Confrere is utterly ignorant of the issues and problems in India and must think and understand again before attacking the Government.

By the way, Reuter reports from Chungking that "all China is praying for early British and American aid particularly in aircraft."

The prayer is in the process of being heard. U. S. Vice-President Henry Wallace is already on his way and will, in due course, reach Chungking by aircraft. There is also every possibility of Mr. Churchill or Attlee or Eden rushing a personal letter to Marshal Chiang Kai-Shek by fast flying aircraft.

BOMBAY-AHMEDABAD TRUNK ROAD GETTING READY

SURAT, June 4: The 500 miles Bombay to Ahmedabad trunk road is almost complete and it is officially stated that only 64 miles are yet to be laid. The road is ready for traffic between Bombay and Ankleshwar (Broach District) and between Borsad and Ahmedabad. The Baroda Government are speeding up the construction of the part of the road that falls in the state territory.

This road forms part of the Government's plan of synchronisation of road and rail communications with a view to lessen the pressure on any one of them.—A. P.

LORRY-TRAIN COLLISION

3 Killed: 14 Injured

ALLAHABAD, June 4.—Three persons died and 14 others were injured as the result of a collision between a motor-lorry and the engine of a train at midnight on Friday at Chamki, says a report appearing in the "Patrika".

It is reported that as the train was being shunted it collided with the lorry which was passing through the level-crossing line. The lorry which was carrying workers was badly damaged. The injured have been removed to hospital.—A. P.

Pt. Malaviya's Health Causing Anxiety

(From Our Correspondent)

ALLAHABAD, June 4.

The condition of Pandit Madan Mohan Malaviya is causing anxiety. He felt pain while passing urine and also passed some blood. As the doctor was examining Pt. Malaviya, he passed a stone about half inch long. This gave him considerable relief. His urine is being sent for examination.

NEW EXCISE DUTIES BILL REJECTED

BANGALORE, June 2.

The Mysore Representative Assembly to-day rejected the Betel-nuts, Coffee and Tea (Excise Duties) Bill by 195 to 42.

The Bill which is modelled on the corresponding British Indian enactment seeks to levy duties of excise at the rate of two annas per lb. on all betel-nuts cured, coffee cured and tea manufactured in Mysore.

The statement of principles of the Bill points out if a similar legislation is not undertaken in Mysore, the State will lose the financial benefit of such a levy without any corresponding advantage, as all exports from and imports into the State would be subjected to duty in British India.

Those opposing the measure pleaded that levy of excise duties on the commodities mentioned in the Bill would lay a heavy burden on the consumer and would also increase cost of production to a great extent. —A. P.

Not Anti-Indian Movement

COLOMBO, May 30.

Speaking at the first annual general meeting of the Premier Ceylon's Consumers Co-operative Society Ltd., at the Central Y.M.C.A. yesterday Mr. D. S. Senanayake, Minister of Agriculture and Lands and Leader of the Ceylon State Council, denied that the co-operative movement in Ceylon was a Sinhalese movement designed against Indian interests in Ceylon. He was referring to a charge made "by certain of our friends on a recent visit to India."

Another Murder Case From Karjat

The case going on at the Thana Sessions, in which several accused were charged of murder of one Mr. Gangal was concluded last week. As there was no evidence against the accused, they were acquitted.

"Deliberate Taking Of Sides"

A huge Bonus rally of the Textile workers of the City was held on the Kamgar Maidan, Parel, on Sunday evening under the auspices of the Bombay Girni Kamgar Union (Red Flag). Thousands of workers poured in the maidan through many processions coming from various areas.

The rally was held in support of the workers' demand for 3 months' bonus.

A resolution was passed condemning the refusal of the Government to refer the dispute to Arbitration and characterised it as deliberate taking of sides with the owners against the workers.

Bad Days For Tennis And Golf In Britain

LONDON, (By Mail):—Before the war there were nearly 3,000 affiliated lawn tennis clubs in the British Isles and about the same number of golf clubs. They are now finding it a great struggle to keep alive and, indeed, many have had to give up altogether.

The main reason, of course, is the rubber shortage, which ever since 1941 has prevented the manufacture of balls for either golf or tennis. Golf balls, though re-painted and re-moulded, do not last for ever and driving even one of them into the "rough" (off the course into long grass) these days is a minor tragedy and brings nearer the end of the golfer's week-ends.

Lawn tennis balls, too, though re-covered and re-inflated, wear out, and their numbers are rapidly decreasing.

Apart from their recreational value, the games of lawn tennis and golf before the war gave employment to many thousands of people, such as groundsmen, greenkeepers, professional players, skilled workmen, and so on, and many a big business deal has been known to have culminated fruitfully at the celebrated 19th hole (in the clubhouse).

Tennis players and golfers are now to be seen gazing wistfully at cricketers, footballers and bowls players who are not dependent on rubber but use balls of leather and wood.

PRICE INDEX

NEW DELHI, June 2: A Press Note says: The Economic Adviser's All-India index of wholesale prices of food articles (new series: base-last week of August 1939) worked out to 228.2 for the week ended May 20, 1944 as against 225.7 for the previous week. The rise of a little more than two points during the week was due to increases in the prices of bajra, gram and coffee.—A. P.
